THE DEMOCRAT.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY HARNEY & HUGHES.
137 Office on Third street, East side, between Market and Jefferson.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1852.

On another column will be found the advertisement of the world-renowned English Review. The intelligent reader don't need a commendation of them, as he is quite aware of their high character in the departments of politics, literature, philosophy, and almost every subject of human thought.

The London Quarterly, and Blackwood's Magazine, are conducted by men of the conservative and Tory school. They are read with interest, however, by the most liberal, on account of the ability with which their articles are written. They are devoted to the past, apprehensive of the future, and seldom pleased with the present. Most subjects treated of, however, have no connection with politics, and are both entertaining and instructive.

The Edinburgh Review is the old organ of the more liberal views of the English people, and has been generally the able and persistent advocate of every measure of reform.

The Westminster is democratic, with a strong leaning to republicanism.

The North British was started by the free church of Scotland shortly after separation from the established church a few years ago. It's articles, however, are not confined to religious subjects.

It is a favorable time to subscribe just now, at the commencement of the new year. Postage is greatly reduced, as will be seen by the advertisement. It will be hard to find the same compass any where else, as much interesting knowledge and information, as in the pages of these reviews. Their merits, however, are so well known to the reading public, that they scarcely need a description.

LORD DERBY IN A QUANDARY.

The protectors find they are cheated again. Derby dodges protection; preferring the honors of office to mere political doctrines. His old friends are not so pliant. They are somewhat fired with indignation, and threaten a fire in the nest. If they can't have the policy they have so long fought for, it is quite likely they will not appreciate the importance of Derby holding office at all.

Derby wants to get back to protection by degrees—by successive efforts; but his design is shallow. The dog couldn't clean the mouth of the well at two jumps; and no more can Lord Derby get back from free trade to protection by successive steps.

THE EXPEDITION TO JAPAN.

Our government is about sending out a large force to the vicinity of the Celestials, without much explanation of what it means. It may be all well enough; but it looks like our government was about to commence filibustering on its own account.

Our neighbor of the Journal undertook to explain some time ago, and made a queer fist of it. He wrote about pretenses for aggression up on Japan—about opening ports with cannon, and other unrighteous ways of doing things which christen in office, who shall force themselves into a Council of Government, and deliberate by a majority of votes.

Death of Junius Brutus Booth.

This eminent tragedian is no more. He died day before yesterday, on his route to this city from New Orleans.

Mr. Booth had no equal in his line of business, and as a personator of the leading characters in Shakespeare's plays, he had no rival since the death of the celebrated Kem.

We learn that his body will be conveyed by his friends to his home at Bel Air, near Baltimore. He leaves a wife and, we believe, an adopted son, who are residing on his estate at Bel Air.

The weather for the past few days has been remarkably pleasant—more like summer than winter.

Mr. Sandford's New Orleans Opera Troupe will give a series of Concerts in our city during the coming week. They are spoken of by the Cincinnati papers as an excellent band of musicians and vocalists.

Mr. Brewer's Panorama of the world is still on exhibition at Mozart Hall, and is visited daily by crowds of admiring spectators.

The mild weather of the past three days has checked operations at the park houses.

Pittsburgh coal is retailing at 124 cents per bushel. There is an abundant supply on hand.

Ole Bull, Strakosch, and Patti, left for St. Louis yesterday on the Gen. Pike.

A large building, to be occupied as a city school house, is about completed at the corner of Wenzel and Market streets.

Howard is kept closely confined in the jail at Lagrange, and a guard of five men are stationed outside the prison.

Advertisement of house to rent, corner of Sixth and Market streets.

A new batch of counterfeit ones on the Northern Bank of Kentucky has been put into circulation. They are easily detected.

The addition to the Pickett Tobacco Warehouse is nearly completed. This is the largest warehouse of the kind in the West.

A new batch of thieves have come to town. Several houses have been broken open within the last three or four days.

There are no less than twenty oyster saloons in this city. A year ago there were not more than three.

Mr. Ratcliffe is the gentleman from whom a guitar was stolen a few days ago, and not Mr. Guer, as we stated yesterday.

Large numbers of hogs are brought in daily from the interior of Indiana, by the Jeffersonville railroad.

The prisoners in the Madison jail attempted to escape on Monday night, but they were caught at work in the morning and their scheme frustrated.

Numbers of German emigrants are coming in every arrival.

Our exchanges from Indianapolis reach us promptly on the day they are issued.

Yesterday we had a perfect avalanche of exchanges—from some places three or four days' issues, and from nearly all points east two days' exchanges. Like the snail, they get here after awhile.

Music Store. It is with pleasure we call attention to the well fitted up and beautifully arranged Music Store of G. W. BRAINARD & CO., 117 Fourth street, Mezzi Hall, where may be found Music, Musical Instruments, and everything pertaining to this line of business, in great variety and of the most exquisite workmanship.

The establishment above referred to is looked upon by the music-loving people of Louisville as the Grand Depot of Music, it will be well enough to inform our readers that B. & CO. keep constantly on hand all the late and popular music of the day, with an assortment of musical instruments, unsurpassed in finish and fitness of tone by any house in the west. To ladies, desirous of procuring a highly finished and splendid toned Piano, we would by all means recommend them to this house, as we can assure them, upon the authority of competent judges, that none are kept for sale by Brainard & Co. except those from the best manufacturers in the United States, and in all cases of sale are warranted to perform well or the money refunded.

The Theatre. No more acting for the present. The season over, and the curtain rolled down and the doors bolted—the company gone, and Bates' don't care—

That's all right; we like to see these independent fellows wrestling with their tempers and fretting their "gizzards" all day, because they can't get the whole world in a hen coop. Hurrah!

The Memphis Whig contains a lengthened obituary of the Hon. John W. Crockett, son of the late David Crockett, of Tennessee.

Mr. Crockett resided for several years past at Paducah, Ky., where he won a high reputation as a lawyer and advocate at the bar. He had recently taken up his abode in Memphis, and his death was quite unexpected.

The new Constitution of Louisiana, just adopted by the people, provides that in case of insolvency of any bank or any banking association, the bill holders thereof shall be entitled to preferences in payment over all other creditors of such bank or association.

Francis Williams has been arrested in New York for biting off the ear of William Smith.

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE IS ITS OWN ACCUSER.—A few days since, a workman employed in one of the large foundries at South Boston left hanging in his vest pocket, while he was at work at the flask, a valuable gold watch. At night, when he put on his vest, he found the watch was missing. The next day he lost his appetite, but no one could be obtained to the thief. The workmen in a hantening manner began to joke each other on the theft of the watch, and during the forenoon one of the men said in a joking manner to a young apprentice, "How does that watch go?" The fellow immediately colored and said, "I have no watch." His master immediately excused him, and he was watched. In the evening he was seen at a late hour, returning from the city, and was pleasantly asked where he had been. He seemed to be rather embarrassed, and said, to Sudbury street. The next day a person who had been at Sudbury street, and found that some one was searching the description of the watch, had been there endeavoring to sell a watch. On the evening of the same day, the watch was found in a blacking box lying on the door steps of one of the head workmen in the foundry. The person in Sudbury street, at the request of the persons, came over and walking among the workmen, and finally caught the apprentice as the one who tried to sell the watch. He then confessed all his crime, and was immediately discharged. Yesterday, however, by a vote of a majority of the workmen, he was permitted again to work. Boston Traveler.

It is on its back unhappy whig lies.

Say Nat, jocously, to his neighbor Ned. "And what of that," is the latter prompt reply, "It shows the party's looking up—not down."

In Cincinnati, Mr. Samuel Parker, seven years of age, has just married his sixth wife. Since his first, he has always married a widow, and never remained a widower longer than six months at one time.—Boston Post.

Capt. Mason requests me to invite you to the launch.

Yours, respectfully, J. S. MOORHEAD.

HEAVY DAMAGES.—The Macom and Western Railroad Company have been mulcted in $5,000 damages in Bibb county, Ga., for injuries sustained by a passenger who got on a freight train after being told by the conductor that the company did not convey passengers by train. The court charged that the passenger was to blame, and entitled to recover; but the jury, it seems, thought otherwise.

HOWARD is kept closely confined in the jail at Lagrange, and a guard of five men are stationed outside the prison.

See advertisement of house to rent, corner of Sixth and Market streets.
